A Checklist Revolution: Checklists for Public Defenders
What problem do checklists solve?

“[T]he volume and complexity of what we know has exceeded our individual ability to deliver its benefits correctly, safely, or reliably ... That means we need a different strategy for overcoming failure, one that builds on experience and takes advantage of the knowledge people have but somehow also makes up for our inevitable human inadequacies”

The Checklist Manifesto
What problem do checklists solve?

“There are a thousand ways that things can go wrong when you’ve got a patient with a stab wound. But everyone involved got almost every step right –

the head-to-toe examination, the careful tracking of the patient’s blood pressure and pulse and rate of breathing,

monitoring his consciousness,

the fluids run in by IV,

the call to the blood bank to have blood ready...

Except no one remembered to ask the patient or the emergency medical technicians what the weapon was.”

Aviation Checklists

In 1935, a new Boeing B-17 – “the most sophisticated airplane in aviation history” – went down during its showcase flight. Why? Because the flight crew had forgotten one simple step, causing the plane to nose dive into the ground after takeoff.
How might a checklist be helpful for public defenders?
The case for public defender checklists

Checklists provide:

- A cognitive net that defends against failure.
- Freedom for our brains to focus on the hard stuff.
- A check against intimate familiarity, which can breed mistakes.
According to a 2010 NLADA report, public defenders in Ada County, Idaho, saw an average of 952 felony clients/lawyer, allowing them just over 2 hours/case.

Creating Effective Checklists

1. DEVELOPMENT
   – Do you have clear, concise objectives for your checklist?

2. DRAFTING
   – Simple sentences
   – Fit on one page

3. VALIDATION
   – Experiment with front line users
   – Modify the checklist & future review

Sample Checklist: 4th Amendment Seizures

Fourth Amendment – Was the Client Seized?

WHEN TO USE: Whenever the government wants to use evidence from a warrantless search or seizure.

HOW TO USE: Read the police report and ask your client about his/her encounter with the police.

Ask your client all of the following questions:

Did the officer use physical force or show his/her authority to get you to stop or stay in place?
☐ Yes ☐ No

Were there two or more officers involved?
☐ Yes ☐ No

Did the officer display a weapon?
☐ Yes ☐ No

Did the officer physically touch you?
☐ Yes ☐ No

Did the officer use language or a tone of voice that made you feel like you had to comply with his/her request?
☐ Yes ☐ No

Based on your client’s answers and the police report, would a reasonable person feel he/she had to stop, stay in place, or comply with the officer’s request?
☐ Yes ☐ No

NEXT STEPS: If you checked “yes” for any of the above, your client may have been seized. If the seizure may have been unreasonable, research and file a Motion to Suppress.
Fourth Amendment – Unconstitutional Pat-Search

WHEN TO USE: Whenever the government wants to use evidence from a Pat-Search.

HOW TO USE: Read the police report and ask your client about the Pat-Search.

After reading the police report and while discussing the Pat-Search with your client, answer all of the following:

Was it reasonable for the officer to suspect the client was committing or had committed a crime (consider the officer’s training and experience)?

☐ Yes      ☐ No

Was it reasonable for the officer to believe your client may be armed and dangerous?

☐ Yes      ☐ No

Would a reasonable person in the officer’s circumstances be warranted in the belief that your client was armed and dangerous?

☐ Yes      ☐ No

Can the officer point to specific and articulable facts that justify the belief that your client was armed and dangerous (not hunches or fears)?

☐ Yes      ☐ No

NEXT STEPS: If you checked “no” to any of the above, your client may have been unconstitutionally pat-searched. Research and file a Motion to Suppress.
